

Pope Reverend Water-Nymph Nocturnal Of The Church of Discordia

Papal Brief #23: Fohit Jaekah Seh Mon (Which is anything but brief.)

With the power invested in me by Our Lady of Discord – Eris – I hereby decree that from this day forward, Money is a glorious and beautiful thing, and that loving Money is not only Allowed, but is Encouraged. For greed is not the love of Money – rather, it is a deep and intense lust for, and an addiction to, Money. Greed is to Money as Nymphomania is to Sex. Greed is an addiction to Money, and only those who do not truly Love Money are greedy. For an addiction is “not being able to get enough of something you don't need.” The greedy are not addicted as much to Money as they are to the “shameful” things it represents to them.

Money is glorious and beautiful because it is the lubrication of society, it is that which gets us things we desire and things we “need.” It is nothing more, and nothing less. Are coupons considered evil? Do those who barter consider the things they barter away to be sinful or dirty? Then why should Money be any different?

Because of the decreed gloriousness and beauty of Money, let it henceforth be also decreed that Money should be spent lavishly on glorious and beautiful things. That is, spent on things that make you happy. Spent on things and people that you value highly. Tip a waitress with a five or a ten dollar bill... or a twenty! Tip anyone who helped her in any way. Hand over loads of Money to teachers or anyone else who is highly valued in society but is not highly paid. Give freely to those who have less than you. And spread the gospel of the gloriousness and beauty of Money.

Giving abundantly of what you have, whether it is Material or Not-Material (such as kindness or a sense of humour) will help you feel abundant, and that, coupled with Love of Money, will make you rich in one way or another. For Eris bade it so: such is the power of the Mind and of Magick. That what you know you will receive, you will.

Know thee that thinking of Money as anything other than the glorious, beautiful thing it is will push Money away from you. For such is the power of the Mind and of Magick: that what your Subconscious thinks about a thing is more powerful than what your conscious mind believes. Give abundantly of what you have, and eventually your Subconscious will get the message and Magick will happen for you.

Signed,
